спаных изексхв. It is now decided that Dickens the great English novelist is coming to America. He maned card-playing cars; but we did not was here once before and we remember how enthusiastle the mon became who crowded proved him. From the day he landed until he left, he was petted, and feasted, and wired, and dired, and toadied, until both he and all other sensible men were disgusted with the whole affair. Dickens took a great deal of what he heard and saw at aldermante dinners in a Pickwickian sense and treated it accordingly. He know that much of the display made over him was a sham, as indiel did every body else.

So, like a sensible man, he went home dispusted and in that condition wrote a book about us, and in that book he told more undiluted truth than had been told in a dozen other books about America, more indeed than has been told since. The American people like trath about as well as any other prople, but they don't like to have it told about themselves, and accordingly some of them, there the more accurately described the old public functionaries, and the young ones who never had an Idea that they didn't get from the old ones, were immensely indignant as well as astonished, but the mass of the people clapped their hands at the Notes and pronounced them good and correst and cried for more. It is just about time for another such a work, and nobody bet Dickens can write it. Since, and indeed for a long time before, the advent of tile Prince of Wales among us there has been no distinguished foreigner in our hands who hom't been officially hared almost to the extent of distraction. If Dickens on his Ise coad visit, is to:slied by the aldermanic and other fraternities, we carnestly hope he will give us another and a larger book similar to the first, of course being a little more particular to discriminate between the few and fait alone, the visit of Dickens will be pleasant and profitable to him and to the whole of the intelligent of the America: people. He is beyond question the best living govelist, if indeed he has not been since he began to write. His readings, furthermore, are said to be equally as good as his writings, and so, one of his entertainments will be on event of a lifetime. Let us crowd his houses and treat him as a respeciable English gentleman, but let us leave the toadying for his friends when he gets home.

The Ballot. .

THE ENGLISH REFORMERS are now press ing for the ballot as the complement of the late extension of the suffrage. They say that only through it can the new voters be protected against intimidation and correstion; but it is doubtful whether they can be protected even in this way. There are plenty of means, as everybody here knows, of leaving how a man votes even with the hallot. The real obstacle to electroal purity in England is not the open voting, but the auxiety of men newly enriched to secure seats in the House of Commons as a means of acquiring social position for themselves and their wives, and the enormous power which the great !and-nwhers possess over the comfort and prosperity of everybody living on their estates. They can, anywhere out of the large towas, ruin a shop keeper or artisan, or drive a laborer to the worldwise, and as long as this is possible it Is folly to suppose that furnishing a man with the means of concealing how he votes will materially help bies. In the great towns the halfot would undoubtedly be a protection for workmen against employers, and it might tender rich condidates more cautious in their expenditure, but the evil lies after all in the constitution of English society. and this will only change slowly even with a reformed Parliament.

SEARCH FOR THE NORTH POLE.-The North Pole is to be searched for in carnest. Firty citizens of France, it is amounced, have sociationed an enterprise for the discovery of the North Pole, and M. Gustave Lember . formerly a pupil of the Polytechele subscription has been opened. As soon as $120,000 are obtained, the enterprise will be carried pet. Among the fifty names appended to the appropriencial are those of several well known Frenchman, E. Drouyn de l'Huys mal Emile de Girardin being among them. We hope the adventurer will be successful; but it will be time to wish him good luck when he gathers together the $120 tube.

Considerable feeling is developing itself at Allony, over the approaching trial of Gen. Cole for the shooting of Mr. Hiscock, who was a member of the Plate Constitutional Convention, now in session there, for the alleged seduction of U e's wife. General Cole less had aumenous preffers of service from entirent consist, both in New York and from alread, among whom are Sanford L. Charch, General Nye, and General Butler, on whose starf Cole formerly served. The colebiated cuinfinal lawyer, W. J. Hadby, has been retained by Cole, and will probably defined thin without assistance from other counsel. It is stated upon good authority, that Mrs. Cole, the unfortunate Indy in the affect, has become insane. Cole is hopeful and 5; good health and spirits, and fork felly justified in his action. He occupies combrodile quarters in the city jail and devotes meet of his time to reading and willing.

Potentiary, - An Equal Rights meeting at Wilmington, Del., was attended by about fifter a bindred persons, of whom about one half were colored men. Hadical resolutions were adopted, and a hundred delegates were appointed to the Baltimore Border State Convention. Congressman Kelley of Pennsylvania and Cresswell of Maryland made stirring addresses. The Convention was entirely successful, and the proceedings were latmenious and dignified.

GAMBLESO CARS .- We have often, In passing, noticed the occupants of smoking cus cogaged in playing eards, and so many of them thus employed that it has occurred to us that they might be more appropriately know until we saw the following, that they were regular gaming establishments. The Boston Travéller says:

"Recently a young man from a city about a hundred miles from Boston came on bourd a train of cars bound for this city. He baind his way into a smoking car, and two black-legs soon induced him to play cards, rmall stakes being put up first. Of course he was allowed to win a small sum, but was soon swindled out of $100, all the money he had, the went late mother car and tried to bor-row money of a third but the truescal. row money of a friend, but did not succeed Returning to the smoking car, he staked his gold watch on the result of a game, and lost that. Still infatuated, he staked his truck that. Still trianided, he staked his truck of childing, and was cheated out of that. He returned to his friend disperate, and said he must have money to redeen his cretice. His friend, who, by the way, happened to be an officer of the law, went with him to the sharpers, and by threats made them dispose their numbers and the request. gorge their plunder; and the young fool reached Boston as rich as when he left home which is certainly better than he deserved."

A Memphis mereleuit was reaveling through Indiamas, lately, and at Jacksonville he got into an awkward position through his kindness. While the cars were waiting a women came to and wanted him to hold her haby while she got her baggage checked. He "kindly" consented The woman was an unusual time checking her baggage. The whistle sounded a warning, baby-holder must take the cars. What should be do ! At this critical juncture of affairs he espied the woman who had conmitted the precious charge to his rare, and ome distance off, proceeding from the depotat a rapid pace. Harrically asking the conductor to delay the train a few moments he followed the woman, overlook her and handed her the infant, saying quietly, "Madam, here is your buby." On dear! said she, "I thought my sister was taking care of it!

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.—The London Tinies of this morning has an editorial, commenting on the correspondence between the Brittish and American governments in the Alabama case. It remarks that Score tary Seward shows by despatch that he is unwilling to forego by a definite settlement the popular ground of complaint against England, and like lawyers, is less auxious for a judgment, than to prolong litigation, and asserts that the counter chains of England at least balance those of the Unite 1 States, and complains that Mr. Seward now declines to adopt the plans of a mixed commission, which was proposed by himself. The article concludes by saying that Lord Stanley has acted all along in good faith, and with a determination not to give capital to a circle of American politicians who are ever seeking causes of complaint against England, but under the circumstances he will wait until the United Slates produces its preten sion...

South America.—The Spanish Government appears to have no intention of resoming hostilities against the allied Republies of South America, for it has sent out orders for the immediate return of the fleet from the Pacific. If the feed is not too slow in the execution of the order, it may be back in time to facilitate the escape of the Queen and her chief advisers: for, whether the present insurrection succeeds or not, the throne of the Hourbons is not likely to stand much longer.

It is a rather singular fact that the President velocd the reconstruction bills on the ground that they denied to him the very power which he now cloims, in opposition to the views of Gen. Grant. His own messages refute the pretentions which he sets up under the law; as his own speeches in the senate, and on his accession to the Presidency, famishes the best argument against the policy which he is endeavoring to fasten upon the country, in opposition to the will of the people, and to the law of Congress.

In Memorran, --- We announced a few days since the death of Mrs. Serah E. Carr, in Georgetown, S. C. Since then we have received a copy of the Times published in that place in which we find the following tribute paid to her memory.

The estimable lady, whose death we re cord, was a native of Newport, R. L. Her first visit to this place was early in the last winter. She came a stranger to us all, but soon, by her quiet michtrusive manners, and ladyb'ee deportment, uttracted many ficuls around her.

It was dering her last and fatal illness, that the writer became acqualuled with her, and through a period of rome works, saw with what fortitede she endered sufferings of no ordinary character. In the midst of these, she had the satisfaction of knowing that she had secured friends who felt a deep interest in her welfare, and who contributed all in their power, by day and by night, to promote her comfort and restantion to health. No kindly attention was neglected; and the good feelings of this community were specially enlisted in ther behalf, as she was here a streager.

The very estimable Rector of the Episco pai Cherch in this place, lead frequent interviews with her, and from blon I learn who should, and must convey, great comfort to the hearts of all who knew and loved her.

She died in tirm belief of all the artigle. of the Christia raith and in the communior of the Epicopal Church, relying alone for her salvation, on the merits and intercession of her Savlove, Christ.

We extend our sympathics to her relations and friends, many of whom are absent, of these ske often spoke in the most tender and affectionate manner.

"Oh! where can rest be found, Rest for the weary soul."

That rest, we trust, she sought and has secured. Amers.
